

HATE CRIME DURING CORONAVIRUS

Traveller family ignore coronavirus social-distancing rules as 40 mourners attend funeral of Gypsy elder, 82

Coronavirus Spain panic: Outbreak linked to funeral as 'mourners spreading virus'

Tyson Fury ignores government advice to stay away from pubs by heading out for a pint of Guinness on St Patrick's Day, as he faces fresh investigation into doping claims

HATE CRIME HAS BEEN INCREASING DURING CORONAVIRUS

- There have been attacks on many groups in society as a result of the virus, these include Gypsies, Roma and Travellers as well as people with disabilities, people who are from the LGBT+ community and people who are perceived to be Chinese just to name a few.
- Hate crimes have already been taken to court and prosecuted during Coronavirus. These cases have involved shouting racist slurs, violence and coughing in people's faces.
- Hate in the media that has targeted Gypsies and Travellers has focused on social distancing and funerals.
- If anyone discriminates against you because of your identity in a way related to Coronavirus, remain calm, record the incident if possible and contact the police if you are in danger. Then report it to us.

It is incredibly important to report hate wherever you see it, so that we can try to sort it. Report it at:

WWW.REPORTRACISMGRT.COM